SUCCEEDS FUNSTON

PERSHING TO TAKE PLACE OF DEAD GENERAL ON BORDER.

DEATH SHOCKS OFFICIALS

Acute Indigestion Given by Physicians As Cause of Sudden Death of Army Leader.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 20.—The army forces along the border are in mourning for their commanding officer, General Frederick Funston, today. Sorrowful preparations are being made at Fort Sam Houston for the reception of General Funston's body. Burial will be at San Francisco.

Pershing May Succeed Funston.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Major Pershing will probably be designated to command the Southern department as successor to General Funston, whose death shocked officialdom here.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 20.—General Frederick Funston, commander of the Southern Department of the United States Army, died here last night a few minutes after he was stricken, while in a local hotel, where he had gone with a party of friends. Physicians say that the cause of his death was acute indigestion.

General Funston had just finished dinner and was playing with a small child when he fell unconscious. He was taken to a room, but the doctors were unable to do anything for him. He died in a short time.

General Funston was educated at Kansas University, where he was known as a man of great bravery and ability. He weighed less than 100 pounds while at the University, and one time conquered a 200-pound "bad man," who threatened him with a razor.

Another event in his career which added to his reputation occurred while he was city editor of a paper in Fort Smith, Ark. At this time he stirred up intense feeling by attacking editorially the publication's own political party leaders during the absence of the editor-in-chief. Many threats were made against him and the plant, but he stood guard until the return of his superior, when he resigned.

Funston's first experience on the fighting line came in Cuba where he commanded General Gomez's artillery with remarkable results.

After engaging in twenty-two battles and being wounded three times, he resigned his command because fifty guerrillas who had aided the Spaniards were executed against his wishes. Captured by Spaniards on his way to Havana, he escaped by swallowing a letter to the president of Cuba, which would have proved his identity.

While a colonel of the famous Twentieth Kansas volunteer infantry, in the Philippine war, Funston performed feats of bravery that brought him the title of brigadier general. His capture of Aguinaldo and his fording of the Rio Grande river at Columbus under fire featured his work.

Funston has been described by his superiors as absolutely fearless. Ever ready to plunge into danger, he cared little whether his force equalled that of his opponent. One day, the story goes, when it appeared certain the Filipinos would destroy three companies under Funston's command, Gen. Harrison Gray Otis inquired of the colonel how long he could hold his position.

"Until I am mustered out!" Funston replied; and he made good by repulsing the Filipinos.

When the volunteers were discharged, Funston retained his rank as a member of the regular army. As a regular he made a mark by maintaining order in San Francisco during the disaster of 1906. Temporarily in charge of the troops at the Presidio, when the disturbance came, he quickly declared martial law and set about obtaining accommodations for the homeless, keeping down the cost of food, and arresting trouble makers. It was while he was in command of the troops at Vera Cruz in 1914 that he was raised to the rank of major general. He was then 49 years old.

The ambition of Funston's youth was to go to West Point, but he failed in an entrance examination. In later years he repeatedly outranked West Pointers who were in school when he failed of admission.

Physically, Funston was one of the smallest men in the United States army. He was barely 5 feet 5 inches tall and usually weighed less than 120 pounds. In civil life he was modest and retiring.

Secretary Baker announced today that Pershing, as a ranking officer of the Southern department, would automatically assume command of that department. The question of his permanent appointment will be considered later.

E. H. SOTHERN IN FILM

Renowned Star Plays Male Lead in "An Enemy of the King," at the Empire Tonight.

E. H. Sothern, the renowned star who plays the male lead in "An Enemy of the King," the Vitaphone Blue Ribbon feature which is the attraction at the Empire theatre tonight, distributed gifts to three of the men who have played a large part in the making of his productions for the Vitaphone company.

On the last day during which he worked at the studios he presented the director Frederic Thompson a heavy Tiffany hand wrought gold ring with a bloodstone signet setting. The cameraman and a property man both received similar heavy gold signet rings. Each of the rings was engraved with the following description: "In remembrance of Vitaphone days from E. H. S."

Needless to say, the recipients of the gifts treasure them highly, and will always look upon them as priceless tokens of esteem from the greatest actor of the day.

RIOTING IN NEW YORK.

Special to The Democrat-Forum. New York, Feb. 20.—Out of the Ghetto and the east side tenements swarmed hundreds of women screaming, "We are starved. We want bread." They swooped down on the city hall where rioting and scenes of disorder followed. Marie Ganz, a riot leader was arrested and said, "You can't expect us to keep quiet and starve to death."

MR. HAINES RETURN CHURCHES CAN HELP

ARRIVES FROM NEW YORK AFTER A SPRING SHOPPING TRIP.

ADMIRE NEW YORKERS TO REDEEM PLEDGES

Enthusiastic Over Spirit of People, Especially Patriotism, Which Is Shown Everywhere.

Harvey L. Haines, who returned to Maryville from his quarterly shopping trip to New York last evening, is enthusiastic in his praise of American made goods and American styles. He says that the American manufacturer has made wonderful improvement in the weaving of cloths since the war began and that the loss of the German dye stuffs has scarcely been felt because of the use of the bright colors in preference to the deeper tones.

"Everything in New York bespeaks prosperity," continued Mr. Haines, "and all of the inhabitants are looking for the most successful trading in the history of the country."

"New York has more hotels than those of Berlin, Paris and London combined, and yet thousands of persons are walking the streets every night unable to get accommodations. I saw automobiles in the city from every state in the Union."

"A silver dollar in New York is now worth twelve cents. This may seem a surprising statement without qualification, but I mean that a silver dollar now will only buy twelve cents' worth in New York if you consider what a dollar used to buy. The high cost of living has done it. A man in New York who is worth $12,000 can only purchase $1,000 worth of goods with his money in comparison to what he could have bought several years ago.

"Everything in New York is patriotism," said Mr. Haines. The buildings are draped with the national colors, the cafes and picture shows use patriotic airs almost exclusively on their programs, and the dancers dance to the same tunes.

"The people of New York are not afraid of war. They consider themselves as safe as the inhabitants of the inland cities. They feel that they are protected by the ships and mines, making them almost immune from attack. They stand with the President with one accord, and every little while demonstrations on the streets show that the people are back of Wilson in every move."

Mr. Haines characterized the styles for the spring season as different. He said that everything was sport clothes, which conveys at once the idea of bright colors, pronounced figures in materials and nobby styles.

PAY-UP WEEK IDEA USED BY MINISTER IN COLUMBIA.

REDEEM PLEDGES

Pastor Says That Church Comes First and Asks Members to Remember Obligations This Week

The Pay-Up Week idea is being urged by one church in Columbia for the purpose of urging members to pay up their delinquent pledges. The pastor of the church had the following announcement printed, and distributed to his members:

"The church treasurer's book shows $484.63 on last year's pledges unpaid. Some members seem to have made pledges, payable weekly, and have made no effort to pay anything on their pledges. Others have paid out just a little on their pledges, and then stopped. It is the regular punctual systematic giving of our members that will keep the church out of debt. This week, February 19-24, is National Pay-Up Week. Everybody should try to pay up — but how about the church? This should come first. Let every member of the church try to pay up in full his pledge to the church on next Sunday. Don't get behind on your church pledge."

This is the second day of Pay-Up Week in Maryville, and the big checks are being used to pay off many debts. Yesterday evening two of the checks had been used one dozen times each and the other two had been lost among the great crowds who are taking advantage of Pay-Up Week to discharge their obligations.

Secretary Claypool has received a number of requests from persons who would be glad to settle their debts, but who have no ready money. He has in every case answered these questions satisfactorily, and the merchants whom you owe will do the same. They are anxious to have as many debts as possible cleaned off their books during this week and they will do all in their power to aid those who are willing to pay their obligations.

Mr. Claypool sent letters to all of the ministers in Maryville, asking them to do what they could to encourage the paying of debts during this time. It is almost too early in the week to predict any great things for Pay-Up Week, but it is the opinion of many of the merchants that it will be of great benefit to the city in general.

FORD BUSINESS GROWING

Frank Barmann Reports Sale of 20 Cars in Two Weeks—Six of These Were Sold in Maryville.

Twenty Ford cars were sold during the last two weeks by the Barmann Automobile Company, according to Frank Barmann. Six of these were sold in the city and the rest were disposed of in the country.

"Never in the history of our trade," said Mr. Barmann, this morning, "has the demand for Ford cars been so great. We have sold twice as many this season so far as we did last year. At present we have twelve orders in the house which we will be unable to fill until other shipments come in."

Saturday we received a car load of Fords. Today we have not even one left. And it is hard to get the cars. The company is hampered in the manufacture by the scarcity of material and in the shipment of cars by the freight car shortage.

"I was talking to a man in Kansas City last week, and he told me that he had been receiving Fords at Kansas City and had been driving them west as far as 320 miles, because he was unable to have them shipped to fill orders."

"It is possible that Ford cars will raise in price. All other cars have gone up, and dealers in Fords are momentarily expecting a raise. This will, of course, be due to the shortage of material. Many persons know this and are anxious to buy their Fords before the price is advanced."

AGE LIMIT MAY BE RAISED.

Special to The Democrat-Forum. London, Feb. 20.—The military age limit may be raised from forty-one to fifty, according to the announcement in the London Times today.

According to the Express the military authorities have decided to take thousands of women into the army work behind the firing line so that men now performing these duties might be released for fighting service.

ON GUARD!

—Seibel in Albany Knickerbocker Press.

SPRING VEGETABLES HERE

Coming From Warmer Climes and Hothouses, Their Prices are Fairly Reasonable.

With the coming of the first signs of spring, the grocery store windows are taking on a fresh look with their loads of lettuce and cauliflower, just shipped in from the warmer climates or grown in the hothouses. Strange to say, also, these vegetables are not very expensive, and can be had on the winter tables at small cost.

Green onions are an added delicacy this week. They came here from St. Joseph and were no doubt grown in the hothouses near that city. Much of the lettuce at this season comes from our own greenhouses.

The oranges, apples, grape fruit, and bananas are plentiful and good looking. The oranges are of all sizes and can be had at various prices. The apples are the choicest of the Jonathan harvest and are put up in baskets, which makes them look tempting and artistic. Grape fruit may be had in abundance and the prices asked for them are reasonable considering that they are not a home product.

Here are a few of the prices for the most tempting fruits and vegetables on the market:

Oranges, a dozen.....	20c to 45c
Grapefruit.....	2 for 15c
Apples, a basket.....	30c
Bananas, a dozen.....	25c
Lemons, a dozen.....	25c
Cocoanuts, each.....	10c
Onions, a bunch.....	5c
Lettuce, a pound.....	30c
Cauliflower, a pound.....	15c
Cranberries, a quart.....	10c

THANKS NATIONAL GUARD

Secretary Baker Sends Letter to Commanders of All Units Which Served on the Border.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Secretary Baker sent a letter of thanks yesterday to the commanders of all national guard units which saw service on the Mexican border.

"I wish to thank you and the officers and men of your organization who went to the border in response to the call of the president," wrote the secretary, "for the valuable service which you have rendered to the country. When the national guard was called into the service of the federal government the lives of men, women and children along the frontier were in grave danger owing to the formidable bandit raids from the Mexican side of the boundary."

WHY WILSON WAITS

PRESIDENT TAKES NO ACTION TO RELIEVE SHIPS BLOCKADE.

LOOKS FOR OVERT ACT

Thinks That Next Few Days Will Show How Far Germany Intends to go in Submarine Campaign.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Because of serious doubt in the mind of the President regarding the real intentions of the officials at the head of the German submarine activities, no action has been taken to relieve the ship blockade in American ports. The officials closest to the President assert that he thinks the next few days will show just how far Germany intends to press hostile measures against the neutrals. This, they say, is the reason that the President has taken no action to have the American lines resume their sailings.

To Tighten America's Grip.

Washington, Feb. 20.—It is supposed that on account of the international crisis Congress will be urged at the behest of the Administration to turn its activities on tightening the American grip west of the Indies and at the Isthmus of Panama. The war cloud has aroused national leaders to the imperative necessity of leaving no legislative stone unturned to provide adequate protection of that vulnerable point, the Panama Canal.

CONSUMPTION CURES

DR. M. P. RAVENEL SAYS THAT THERE ARE FOUR OF THEM.

NONE ARE PATENTED

Fresh Air, Sunlight, Good Food and Rest, Are the Best Remedies for Disease.

Only a few years ago consumption was considered an incurable disease. It was believed to be hereditary, and once it spread in any family there seemed little hope of stopping its ravages. We know now that consumption is not only curable, but that the vast majority of people who contract the disease get well without ever having to consult a physician. Dr. M. P. Ravenel of the department of preventive medicine of the University of Missouri says. It is the most widespread of all diseases. The Germans have a saying, "Every man has before the end a little tuberculosis." These facts have demonstrated to us the curability of the disease.

There is no medicine which has any specific or special effect in consumption. All so-called cures are fakes, pure and simple. They are apt to be loaded with opium, alcohol or some narcotic drug, and invariably injure the digestion and lessen the chances of recovery. It may be said that the chances for recovery from tuberculosis depend entirely on keeping the digestive system in good condition, and anything like opium or alcohol which injures the digestion will also lessen the prospects of recovery from tuberculosis.

What then are the cures for tuberculosis? They are four in number, and no one has any patent on them. They are fresh air, sunlight, good food and rest. Drugs should be used sparingly, and only on the advice of a physician. The most successful physicians use them as little as possible in treating the disease at the present day.

To obtain the four requisites mentioned above, sanatoria have been built throughout the country in large numbers. They carry out the so-called open air treatment of tuberculosis. Almost all states have provided such institutions for their citizens and many cities have done likewise. The earlier a case of consumption is taken to an institution, the better. Much valuable time is often lost by dragging with patent medicines which are invariably injurious.

Don't neglect a persistent and long continued cough. Colds do not last indefinitely. A cold which lasts for several weeks is almost invariably consumption. Don't neglect early symptoms. The earlier proper treatment is begun, the greater the chances of recovery.

TO CONTROL BEAN WEEVIL
Missouri College of Agriculture Says That Weevils Beans Should Never Be Planted.

Farmers frequently complain that bean seed stored apparently in good condition are found to be full of holes at seeding time in spring. These holes are caused by the common bean weevil. The beetle attacks the bean pods in the field and is also able to breed in the stored seed. In most cases the first appearance of the weevil is in stored beans. Examination will disclose the holes where the adult beetle has emerged and also may show grubs still at work on the inside.

T. J. Talbert of the Missouri College of Agriculture suggests measures of control. Weevily seed should never be planted, because the beans usually fail to germinate. Those that germinate do not grow satisfactorily. A temperature of 145 degrees F. will kill the weevils in all stages of development provided they are subjected to the heat for six hours. The heat does not injure the germination of the seed. They may be placed in an oven for this treatment.

Weevils may also be eliminated from seed by fumigation with carbon bisulphide. From one to three pounds are required for 100 bushels of seed or 1 ounce for 75 or 100 pounds of seed. The best method for treatment is to place the seed in a tight receptacle and pour the carbon bisulphide into an open dish on top of the seed. The fumes from the liquid will settle among the seed and kill the weevils. Allow the gas to act from 24 to 36 hours. The gas is highly explosive and consequently must not be exposed to artificial light or fire.

The pea weevil has but one generation a year but may remain over winter in the seed. The same remedy recommended against the bean weevil will also destroy the pea weevil.

USE BETTER FLOUR

QUALITY OF FLOUR NOT DETERMINED BY ITS FOOD VALUE.

GRAHAM FLOUR BEST

Contains More Energy and Food Value Than A Corresponding Amount of White Flour.

The price we pay for flour is not determined by its food value but by its power to make a nice appearing, large loaf of bread, according to Miss Louise Stanley of the Department of Home Economics of the University of Missouri. The high cost of living could be reduced by demanding more of the flour with all of the nutritive value left in it.

Under the modern system of milling approximately 70 per cent of the wheat is made into flour and 20 per cent is sold as cattle food. Ground as graham flour, rejecting none of it, 100 pounds of flour would be given for 100 pounds of grain. In discarding the bran almost one-half of the natural fat of the grain and more than three-fourths of the mineral matter of the flour is lost.

Compared on the basis of pound for pound there is more energy in the graham than in the wheat flour. The flour is digested and utilized sufficiently well to give more energy and food value than a corresponding amount of white flour. In its failure of complete absorption lies in a large part of the value of graham flour. It is one of the best correctives for constipation. This value of graham bread was recognized by the ancients. Hippocrates, the father of medicine, commended the flour from unbolted wheat meal.

The name Graham was derived from the advocacy of the use of unbolted flour by Dr. Sylvester Graham in 1829. True graham flour is made by grinding the whole grain without bolting. Much of that on the market is made by blending flour with shorts and bran. Properly ground this flour should give us a cheaper, better flavored bread. Graham flour is now quoted at the same price as white flour but a more steady demand for graham bread would change this.

If children ate more of this bread and less of the highly refined white bread, they would be less likely to have defective teeth and be undernourished.

'SPUD' SCARCITY ALARMING
Missouri Legislators and Friends at Jefferson City, Suffering From Lack of Potatoes at Hotels. Special to The Democrat-Forum.
Jefferson City, Feb. 20.—The disappearance of the justly celebrated and well-liked potato is causing no slight alarm among the Missouri legislators and friends who follow in the train.
When the legislators first invaded this city the local hotels offered the "spuds" in various styles and large sizes—baked, fried and boiled. All was well.
But as the days passed the offerings of potatoes began to shrink, slowly but positively, and as a result a mighty roar went forth from the throats of the lawmakers and their friends.
The "roar" has done no good. Fried, baked and boiled "spuds" now are of marble size.

Obituary.
Clark Andrews was 83 years old. He was born August 11, 1834, in Richland county, Ohio. He was reared on a farm in his native state. In 1849, he moved to Wisconsin and six years later moved to Minnesota. In 1860, Mr. Andrews was married to Miss Louisa Pitcher. Five children were born to this union, four of whom are living. They are: Edward L. Andrews of Idaho Falls, Idaho; Ernest J. Andrews, Shenandoah, Ia.; Arthur C. Andrews of Wichita, Kan.; and Harley H. of Pasadena, Calif. A daughter, Mrs. C. A. Hawkins died several years ago.

Mr. Andrews was an old soldier, having been a member of Company F, First Minnesota Infantry, and was in the Army of the Cumberland. He served as a lieutenant until the close of the war and participated in the grand review at Washington.

In 1870 he moved with his family to Maryville and had lived here since. Of his life in Maryville, no one who has lived here any length of time need be told. From the time of his coming he has been a faithful Christian and a devoted member of the Baptist church. He was the senior deacon of the church, having been a member of the board of deacons since 1880. It is safe to say that this church has never lost a better friend and a more loyal supporter.

The sermon was preached by a former pastor, Rev. L. M. Hale to a large crowd, from the text: I Cor. 15:57, "The Great Victory Over Death."
Those who were here from out of town to attend the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Andrews of Shenandoah, Iowa, Prof. Winfred Hawkins, of Lawrence, Kansas, Ruskin Hawkins of Columbia, Mo., Charles Andrews of St. Joseph. The pall bearers were Eugene Ogden, Charles Hyslop, Anderson Craig, G. B. Holmes, C. L. Gann and Edwin McDonald.

INSURANCE BILL LOSING
Measure Requiring Life Insurance Companies to Invest Part of Money in Missouri Doomed to Defeat. Special to The Democrat-Forum.
Jefferson City, Feb. 20.—Trouble looms in the pathway of Senator Casey's bill requiring life insurance companies to invest 75 per cent of their securities held for policy holders of this state in Missouri. Senator Casey already has lost in his efforts to have the bill taken out of its regular order for engrossment. By a vote of 17 to 13 the Senate voted down his motion. Senator Mitchell, of Lawrence, who is leading the opposition on the Casey bill, said that only domestic life insurance companies would be benefited by such a law, as it would result in the non-resident insurance companies withdrawing their business from Missouri and leaving no opposition from the outside. The Senator added that Texas was the only state operating under such a law and the citizens there now are opposed to it.
Senator Casey characterized as a "gigantic bluff," the threat of the life insurance companies to leave the state if his bill becomes a law. He pointed out that the fire insurance companies made the same bluff four years ago against legislation which was adopted. For a short time the outside corporations declined to write new insurance, but later resumed their underwriting. Senator Taylor joined Senator Casey in his efforts to have the bill passed.
Although the Casey measure is not dead, it is generally believed that its chances of passing have been greatly impaired.

KEEP WATER FROM ROADS
University of Missouri Gives Advice On Proper Care of the State Highways.
(Note—This is one of a series of good roads articles prepared under the direction of the School of Engineering of the University of Missouri).
The bane of earth roads is water. To wet the foundation, is to quickly ruin the road. When the frost goes out in the spring, the fields are allowed to drain into the roadway, regardless of proper provision to take care of the excess water. Road ditches are usually of small capacity and often become clogged so that excess water backs up over the road and quickly transforms it into a bottomless mire. Farmers should provide their own

Fern, Tonight

Because Bessie Gale, an actress, made sure to protect herself from intrigue, she was known as "the unattainable" among the fast set that spends its leisure hours in pursuit of pleasure along New York's "Great White Way." Because she was left, accidentally, stranded among the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains, while on a theatrical tour, she met and married a real man, albeit he was a sheep herder. Because there came to Bessie the longing to see once more the "bright lights," and because she listened to the call of the stage, Bluebird Photoplays have been provided with an excellent scenario for "The Unattainable," the feature to be exhibited at the Fern theatre tonight, with Dorothy Davenport and Emory Johnson leading a splendid company in an engaging entertainment. Pictorially the work is made beautiful by the natural scenery of the Sierras and expensive "sets" depicting the haunts of the millionaires in New York. Its dramatic artistry is assured in the efforts of a carefully selected company, chosen to interpret the various roles because of the adaptability of the artist to the requisite impersonations, 10 cents to all.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fanning, Irene Henderson, Cletta Rasco, Pearlina Fanning, Myrtle Rhyne and Bernita Henderson, Messrs. The small bonfire which was to have warmed his dinner for William P. Sullinger while working in the woods near Excelsior Springs, set fire to his clothing. In running toward the water of a nearby stream it is supposed that the unfortunate man struck his head against a tree and fell in a dazed condition and there perished in the flames which spread until fully an acre of leaves, grass and undergrowth was burned over.

Charles H. Roach

First Washington
Statue by Houdon

IN Washington's diary for Oct. 3, 1785, he writes that about 11 o'clock, after they were in bed, Mr. Houdon and his three young men assistants arrived, coming by boat from Alexandria.

"During the sculptor's two weeks' stay Washington sat for a bust that was modeled in clay, writing in his diary a full account of the method of mixing the plaster of paris and the making of the molds, a process in which he was greatly interested. He also submitted to the unpleasant operation of having a life mask made of his features in order to insure a perfect likeness. In the presence of Mr. Madison exact measurements of his figure were made and full details of his uniform were noted to enable the sculptor to complete his work.

"The clay bust was then left by the sculptor at Mount Vernon, where it is one of the most highly valued of all of Mount Vernon's relics of the Father of His Country. But the life mask and molds of the bust Houdon himself took to Paris, not trusting them to the hands of his assistant, 'for,' said he, 'if they are lost in the ocean I am determined to perish with them.'

"One day during his stay at Mount Vernon Washington was looking at some fine horses with a view to their purchase, but the high price asked by the groom in charge so incensed him that the man was promptly sent away. Houdon, who witnessed the transaction, saw with an artist's eye in Washington's pose and expression the very thing needed for his statue and made memorandum of it. On Oct. 19 Washington writes: 'Mr. Houdon, having finished the business which brought him hither, went up Monday with his people, work and implements in my barge to Alexandria to take passage in the stage for Philadelphia next morning.'

"The statue, according to agreement, was to be finished in three years, but was not completed until 1793. Jefferson saw the work as it progressed and was enthusiastic over the likeness and characteristic attitude that the sculptor had caught."—H. A. Ogden in St. Nicholas.

Washington's Tomb

TOMB OF WASHINGTON AT MOUNT VERNON.

TOMB of the mighty dead,
How sacred every tree
Waving above thy head
Or shedding bloom on thee!
As long as fair Potomac flows,
Sparkling 'neath Mount Vernon's sun,
Revered by friends and foes,
Dwell here, in blest repose,
Washington!

SONS of the pilgrim sires,
Sons of yon boundless west,
Ye whom the tropic fires
Or hoarse lakes lull to rest,
If wandering wide you o'er forget
Ties that bind us all in one,
Here, at your father's feet,
The brothers' vow repeat,
While the breeze respondeth sweet,
Washington!

HE of Helena's rock
Hath an enduring name
Echoed in battle shock,
Sculptured with blood and flame.
But, when the mother at her knee
Whispers to her cradled son
The alphabet of liberty,
Will he not lap of thee,
Washington?

SHOULD baleful discord steal
Our patriot strength away,
Or fierce invasion's zeal
Recall old Bunker's day,
Or mad disunion smite the tree
Nursed so long in glory's sun,
Mount Vernon's tomb shall be
The watchword of the free,
Guiding their hearts to thee,
Washington!

Washington's Birthday.

The date of Washington's birthday was, according to the calendar at the time of his birth, Feb. 11. This became Feb. 22 when the Gregorian calendar was adopted in 1752. The first place to use the new date in celebrating the event is said to have been Newport, R. I. As late as 1778 Washington himself apparently used the old style in referring to his birthday.

Stock steers met a good demand, prices ranging from $7.00 to $9.60, common grades slow and weak. SUCCEEDS FUNSTON

PERSHING TO TAKE PLACE OF DEAD GENERAL ON BORDER.

DEATH SHOCKS OFFICIALS

Acute Indigestion Given by Physicians As Cause of Sudden Death of Army Leader.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 20.—The army forces along the border are in mourning for their commanding officer, General Frederick Funston, today. Sorrowful preparations are being made at Fort Sam Houston for the reception of General Funston's body. Burial will be at San Francisco.

Pershing May Succeed Funston.
Washington, Feb. 20.—Major Pershing will probably be designated to command the Southern department as successor to General Funston, whose death shocked officialdom here.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 20.—General Frederick Funston, commander of the Southern Department of the United States Army, died here last night a few minutes after he was stricken, while in a local hotel, where he had gone with a party of friends. Physicians say that the cause of his death was acute indigestion.

General Funston had just finished dinner and was playing with a small child when he fell unconscious. He was taken to a room, but the doctors were unable to do anything for him. He died in a short time.

General Funston was educated at Kansas University, where he was known as a man of great bravery and spirit. He weighed less than 100 pounds while at the University, and one time conquered a 200-pound "bad man," who threatened him with a razor.

Another event in his career which added to his reputation occurred while he was city editor of a paper in Fort Smith, Ark. At this time he stirred up intense feeling by attacking editorially the publication's own political party leaders during the absence of the editor-in-chief. Many threats were made against him and the plant, but he stood guard until the return of his superior, when he resigned.

Funston's first experience on the fighting line came in Cuba where he commanded General Gomez's artillery with remarkable results.

After engaging in twenty-two battles and being wounded three times, he resigned his command because fifty guerrillas who had aided the Spaniards were executed against his wishes. Captured by Spaniards on his way to Havana, he escaped by swallowing a letter to the president of Cuba, which would have proved his identity.

While a colonel of the famous Twentieth Kansas volunteer infantry, in the Philippine war, Funston performed feats of bravery that brought him the title of brigadier general. His capture of Aguinaldo and his fording of the Rio Grande river at Columbus, under fire featured his work.

Funston has been described by his superiors as absolutely fearless. Ever ready to plunge into danger, he cared little whether his force equalled that of his opponent. One day, the story goes, when it appeared certain the Filipinos would destroy three companies under Funston's command, Gen. Harrison Gray Otis inquired of the colonel how long he could hold his position.

"Until I am mustered out!" Funston replied; and he made good by repulsing the Filipinos.

When the volunteers were discharged, Funston retained his rank as a member of the regular army. As a regular he made a mark by maintaining order in San Francisco during the disaster of 1906. Temporarily in charge of the troops at the Presidio, when the disturbance came, he quickly declared martial law and set about obtaining accommodations for the homeless, keeping down the cost of food, and arresting trouble makers. It was while he was in command of the troops at Vera Cruz in 1914 that he was raised to the rank of major general. He was then 49 years old.

The ambition of Funston's youth was to go to West Point, but he failed in an entrance examination. In later years he repeatedly outranked West Pointers who were in school when he failed of admission.

Physically, Funston was one of the smallest men in the United States army. He was barely 5 feet 5 inches tall and usually weighed less than 120 pounds. In civil life he was modest and retiring.

Secretary Baker announced today that Pershing, as a ranking officer of the Southern department, would automatically assume command of that department. The question of his permanent appointment will be considered later.

E. H. SOTHERN IN FILM

Renowned Star Plays Male Lead in "An Enemy of the King," at the Empire Tonight.

E. H. Sothern, the renowned star who plays the male lead in "An Enemy of the King," the Vitaphone Blue Ribbon feature which is the attraction at the Empire theatre tonight, distributed gifts to three of the men who have played a large part in the making of his productions for the Vitaphone company.

On the last day during which he worked at the studios he presented the director Frederic Thompson a heavy Tiffany hand wrought gold ring with a bloodstone signet setting. The cameraman and a property man both received similar heavy gold signet rings. Each of the rings was engraved with the following description: "In remembrance of Vitaphone days from E. H. S."

Needless to say, the recipients of the gifts treasure them highly, and will always look upon them as priceless tokens of esteem from the greatest actor of the day.

RIOTING IN NEW YORK.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

New York, Feb. 20.—Out of the Ghetto and the east side tenements swarmed hundreds of women screaming, "We are starved. We want bread." They swooped down on the city hall where rioting and scenes of disorder followed. Marie Ganz, a riot leader was arrested and said, "You can't expect us to keep quiet and starve to death."

MR. HAINES RETURN CHURCHES CAN HELP

ARRIVES FROM NEW YORK AFTER A SPRING SHOPPING TRIP.

ADMIRE NEW YORKERS TO REDEEM PLEDGES

Enthusiastic Over Spirit of People, Especially Patriotism, Which Is Shown Everywhere.

Harvey L. Haines, who returned to Maryville from his quarterly shopping trip to New York last evening, is enthusiastic in his praise of American made goods and American styles. He says that the American manufacturer has made wonderful improvement in the weaving of cloths since the war began and that the loss of the German dye stuffs has scarcely been felt because of the use of the bright colors in preference to the deeper tones. "Everything in New York bespeaks prosperity," continued Mr. Haines, "and all of the inhabitants are looking for the most successful trading in the history of the country."

"New York has more hotels than those of Berlin, Paris and London combined, and yet thousands of persons are walking the streets every night unable to get accommodations. I saw automobiles in the city from every state in the Union."

"A silver dollar in New York is now worth twelve cents. This may seem a surprising statement without qualification, but I mean that a silver dollar now will only buy twelve cents' worth in New York if you consider what a dollar used to buy. The high cost of living has done it. A man in New York who is worth $12,000 can only purchase $1,000 worth of goods with his money in comparison to what he could have bought several years ago.

"Everything in New York is patriotism," said Mr. Haines. The buildings are draped with the national colors, the cafes and picture shows use patriotic airs almost exclusively on their programs, and the dancers dance to the same tunes.

"The people of New York are not afraid of war. They consider themselves as safe as the inhabitants of the inland cities. They feel that they are protected by the ships and mines, making them almost immune from attack. They stand with the President with one accord, and every little while demonstrations on the streets show that the people are back of Wilson in every move."

Mr. Haines characterized the styles for the spring season as different. He said that everything was sport clothes, which conveys at once the idea of bright colors, pronounced figures in materials and nobby styles.

PAY-UP WEEK IDEA USED BY MINISTER IN COLUMBIA.

Pastor Says That Church Comes First and Asks Members to Remember Obligations This Week

The Pay-Up Week idea is being urged by one church in Columbia for the purpose of urging members to pay up their delinquent pledges. The pastor of the church had the following announcement printed, and distributed to his members:

"The church treasurer's book shows $484.63 on last year's pledges unpaid. Some members seem to have made pledges, payable weekly, and have made no effort to pay anything on their pledges. Others have paid out just a little on their pledges, and then stopped. It is the regular punctual systematic giving of our members that will keep the church out of debt. This week, February 19-24, is National Pay-Up Week. Everybody should try to pay up — but how about the church? This should come first. Let every member of the church try to pay up in full his pledge to the church on next Sunday. Don't get behind on your church pledge."

This is the second day of Pay-Up Week in Maryville, and the big checks are being used to pay off many debts. Yesterday evening two of the checks had been used one dozen times each and the other two had been lost among the great crowds who are taking advantage of Pay-Up Week to discharge their obligations.

Secretary Claypool has received a number of requests from persons who would be glad to settle their debts, but who have no ready money. He has in every case answered these questions satisfactorily, and the merchants whom you owe will do the same. They are anxious to have as many debts as possible cleaned off their books during this week and they will do all in their power to aid those who are willing to pay their obligations.

Mr. Claypool sent letters to all of the ministers in Maryville, asking them to do what they could to encourage the paying of debts during this time. It is almost too early in the week to predict any great things for Pay-Up Week, but it is the opinion of many of the merchants that it will be of great benefit to the city in general.

FORD BUSINESS GROWING

Frank Barmann Reports Sale of 20 Cars in Two Weeks—Six of These Were Sold in Maryville.

Twenty Ford cars were sold during the last two weeks by the Barmann Automobile Company, according to Frank Barmann. Six of these were sold in the city and the rest were disposed of in the country.

"Never in the history of our trade," said Mr. Barmann, this morning, "has the demand for Ford cars been so great. We have sold twice as many this season so far as we did last year. At present we have twelve orders in the house which we will be unable to fill until other shipments come in."

Saturday we received a car load of Fords. Today we have not even one left. And it is hard to get the cars. The company is hampered in the manufacture by the scarcity of material and in the shipment of cars by the freight car shortage.

"I was talking to a man in Kansas City last week, and he told me that he had been receiving Fords at Kansas City and had been driving them west as far as 320 miles, because he was unable to have them shipped to fill orders."

"It is possible that Ford cars will raise in price. All other cars have gone up, and dealers in Fords are momentarily expecting a raise. This will, of course, be due to the shortage of material. Many persons know this and are anxious to buy their Fords before the price is advanced."

AGE LIMIT MAY BE RAISED.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

London, Feb. 20.—The military age limit may be raised from forty-one to fifty, according to the announcement in the London Times today.

According to the Express the military authorities have decided to take thousands of women into the army work behind the firing line so that men now performing these duties might be released for fighting service.

Coming From Warmer Climes and Hothouses, Their Prices are Fairly Reasonable.

With the coming of the first signs of spring, the grocery store windows are taking on a fresh look with their loads of lettuce and cauliflower, just shipped in from the warmer climates or grown in the hothouses. Strange to say, also, these vegetables are not very expensive, and can be had on the winter tables at small cost.

Green onions are an added delicacy this week. They came here from St. Joseph and were no doubt grown in the hothouses near that city. Much of the lettuce at this season comes from our own greenhouses.

The oranges, apples, grape fruit, and bananas are plentiful and good looking. The oranges are of all sizes and can be had at various prices. The apples are the choicest of the Jonathan harvest and are put up in baskets, which makes them look tempting and artistic. Grape fruit may be had in abundance and the prices asked for them are reasonable considering that they are not a home product.

Here are a few of the prices for the most tempting fruits and vegetables on the market:

Oranges, a dozen.....	20c to 45c
Grapefruit.....	2 for 15c
Apples, a basket.....	30c
Bananas, a dozen.....	25c
Lemons, a dozen.....	25c
Cocoanuts, each.....	10c
Onions, a bunch.....	15c
Lettuce, a pound.....	30c
Cauliflower, a pound.....	15c
Cranberries, a quart.....	10c

THANKS NATIONAL GUARD

Secretary Baker Sends Letter to Commanders of All Units Which Served on the Border.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Secretary Baker sent a letter of thanks yesterday to the commanders of all national guard units which saw service on the Mexican border.

"I wish to thank you and the officers and men of your organization who went to the border in response to the call of the president," wrote the secretary, "for the valuable service which you have rendered to the country. When the national guard was called into the service of the federal government the lives of men, women and children along the frontier were in grave danger owing to the formidable bandit raids from the Mexican side of the boundary."

WHY WILSON WAITS

PRESIDENT TAKES NO ACTION TO RELIEVE SHIPS BLOCKADE.

LOOKS FOR OVERT ACT

Thinks That Next Few Days Will Show How Far Germany Intends to go in Submarine Campaign.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Because of serious doubt in the mind of the President regarding the real intentions of the officials at the head of the German submarine activities, no action has been taken to relieve the ship blockade in American ports. The officials closest to the President assert that he thinks the next few days will show just how far Germany intends to press hostile measures against the neutrals. This, they say, is the reason that the President has taken no action to have the American lines resume their sailings.

To Tighten America's Grip.

Washington, Feb. 20.—It is supposed that on account of the international crisis Congress will be urged at the behest of the Administration to turn its activities on tightening the American grip west of the Indies and at the Isthmus of Panama. The war cloud has aroused national leaders to the imperative necessity of leaving no legislative stone unturned to provide adequate protection of that vulnerable point, the Panama Canal.

CONSUMPTION CURES

DR. M. P. RAVENEL SAYS THAT THERE ARE FOUR OF THEM.

NONE ARE PATENTED

Fresh Air, Sunlight, Good Food and Rest, Are the Best Remedies for Disease.

Only a few years ago consumption was considered an incurable disease. It was believed to be hereditary, and once it spread in any family there seemed little hope of stopping its ravages. We know now that consumption is not only curable, but that the vast majority of people who contract the disease get well without ever having to consult a physician. Dr. M. P. Ravenel of the department of preventive medicine of the University of Missouri says, "It is the most widespread of all diseases. The Germans have a saying, 'Every man has before the end a little tuberculosis.' These facts have demonstrated to us the curability of the disease.

There is no medicine which has any specific or special effect in consumption. All so-called cures are fakes, pure and simple. They are apt to be loaded with opium, alcohol or some narcotic drug, and invariably injure the digestion and lessen the chances of recovery. It may be said that the chances for recovery from tuberculosis depend entirely on keeping the digestive system in good condition, and anything like opium or alcohol which injures the digestion will also lessen the prospects of recovery from tuberculosis.

What then are the cures for tuberculosis? They are four in number, and no one has any patent on them. They are fresh air, sunlight, good food and rest. Drugs should be used sparingly, and only on the advice of a physician. The most successful physicians use them as little as possible in treating the disease at the present day.

To obtain the four requisites mentioned above, sanatoria have been built throughout the country in large numbers. They carry out the so-called open air treatment of tuberculosis. Almost all states have provided such institutions for their citizens and many cities have done likewise. The earlier a case of consumption is taken to an institution, the better. Much valuable time is often lost by dragging with patent medicines which are invariably injurious.

Don't neglect a persistent and long continued cough. Colds do not last indefinitely. A cold which lasts for several weeks is almost invariably consumption. Don't neglect early symptoms. The earlier proper treatment is begun, the greater the chances of recovery.

TO CONTROL BEAN WEEVIL

Missouri College of Agriculture Says
That Weevily Beans Should Never be Planted.

Farmers frequently complain that bean seed stored apparently in good condition are found to be full of holes at seeding time in spring. These holes are caused by the common bean weevil. The beetle attacks the bean pods in the field and is also able to breed in the stored seed. In most cases the first appearance of the weevil is in stored beans. Examination will disclose the holes where the adult beetle has emerged and also may show grubs still at work on the inside.

T. J. Talbert of the Missouri College of Agriculture suggests measures of control. Weevily seed should never be planted, because the beans usually fail to germinate. Those that germinate do not grow satisfactorily. A temperature of 145 degrees F. will kill the weevils in all stages of development provided they are subjected to the heat for six hours. The heat does not injure the germination of the seed. They may be placed in an oven for this treatment.

Weevils may also be eliminated from seed by fumigation with carbon bisulphide. From one to three pounds are required for 100 bushels of seed or 1 ounce for 75 or 100 pounds of seed. The best method for treatment is to place the seed in a tight receptacle and pour the carbon bisulphide into an open dish on top of the seed. The fumes from the liquid will settle among the seed and kill the weevils. Allow the gas to act from 24 to 36 hours. The gas is highly explosive and consequently must not be exposed to artificial light or fire.

The pea weevil has but one generation a year but may remain over winter in the seed. The same remedy recommended against the bean weevil will also destroy the pea weevil.

USE BETTER FLOUR

QUALITY OF FLOUR NOT DETERMINED BY ITS FOOD VALUE.

GRAHAM FLOUR BEST

Contains More Energy and Food
Value Than A Corresponding
Amount of White Flour.

The price we pay for flour is not determined by its food value but by its power to make a nice appearing, large loaf of bread, according to Miss Louise Stanley of the Department of Home Economics of the University of Missouri. The high cost of living could be reduced by demanding more of the flour with all of the nutritive value left in it.

Under the modern system of milling approximately 70 per cent of the wheat is made into flour and 20 per cent is sold as cattle food. Ground as graham flour, rejecting none of it, 100 pounds of flour would be given for 100 pounds of grain. In discarding the bran almost one-half of the natural fat of the grain and more than three-fourths of the mineral matter of the flour is lost.

Compared on the basis of pound for pound there is more energy in the graham than in the wheat flour. The flour is digested and utilized sufficiently well to give more energy and food value than a corresponding amount of white flour. In its failure of complete absorption lies in a large part of the value of graham flour. It is one of the best correctives for constipation. This value of graham bread was recognized by the ancients. Hippocrates, the father of medicine, commended the flour from unbolted wheat meal.

The name Graham was derived from the advocacy of the use of unbolted flour by Dr. Sylvester Graham in 1829. True graham flour is made by grinding the whole grain without bolting. Much of that on the market is made by blending flour with shorts and bran. Properly ground this flour should give us a cheaper, better flavored bread. Graham flour is now quoted at the same price as white flour but a more steady demand for graham bread would change this.

If children ate more of this bread and less of the highly refined white bread, they would be less likely to have defective teeth and be undernourished.

'SPUD' SCARCITY ALARMING

Missouri Legislators and Friends at Jefferson City, Suffering From
Lack of Potatoes at Hotels.
Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Jefferson City, Feb. 20.—The disappearance of the justly celebrated and well-liked potato is causing no slight alarm among the Missouri legislators and friends who follow in the train.

When the legislators first invaded this city the local hotels offered the "spuds" in various styles and large sizes—baked, fried and boiled. All was well.

But as the days passed the offerings of potatoes began to shrink, slowly but positively, and as a result a mighty roar went forth from the throats of the lawmakers and their friends.

The "roar" has done no good. Fried, baked and boiled "spuds" now are of marble size.

Obituary.

Clark Andrews was 83 years old. He was born August 11, 1834, in Richland county, Ohio. He was reared on a farm in his native state. In 1849, he moved to Wisconsin and six years later moved to Minnesota. In 1860, Mr. Andrews was married to Miss Louisa Pitcher. Five children were born to this union, four of whom are living. They are: Edward L. Andrews of Idaho Falls, Idaho; Ernest J. Andrews, Shenandoah, Ia.; Arthur C. Andrews of Wichita, Kan.; and Harley H. of Pasadena, Calif. A daughter, Mrs. C. A. Hawkins died several years ago.

Mr. Andrews was an old soldier, having been a member of Company F, First Minnesota Infantry, and was in the Army of the Cumberland. He served as a Lieutenant until the close of the war and participated in the grand review at Washington.

In 1870 he moved with his family to Maryville and had lived here since. Of his life in Maryville, no one who has lived here any length of time need be told. From the time of his coming he has been a faithful Christian and a devoted member of the Baptist church. He was the senior deacon of the church, having been a member of the board of deacons since 1880. It is safe to say that this church has never lost a better friend and a more loyal supporter.

The sermon was preached by a former pastor, Rev. L. M. Hale to a large crowd, from the text: I Cor. 15:57, "The Great Victory Over Death."

Those who were here from out of town to attend the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Andrews of Shenandoah, Iowa, Prof. Winfred Hawkins, of Lawrence, Kansas, Ruskin Hawkins, of Columbia, Mo., Charles Andrews of St. Joseph. The pall bearers were Eugene Ogden, Charles Hyslop, Anderson Craig, G. B. Holmes, C. L. Gann and Edwin McDonald.

INSURANCE BILL LOSING

Measure Requiring Life Insurance
Companies to Invest Part of Money
in Missouri Doomed to Defeat.
Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Jefferson City, Feb. 20.—Trouble looms in the pathway of Senator Casey's bill requiring life insurance companies to invest 75 per cent of their securities held for policy holders of this state in Missouri. Senator Casey already has lost in his efforts to have the bill taken out of its regular order for engrossment. By a vote of 17 to 13 the Senate voted down his motion. Senator Mitchell, of Lawrence, who is leading the opposition on the Casey bill, said that only domestic life insurance companies would be benefited by such a law, as it would result in the non-resident insurance companies withdrawing their business from Missouri and leaving no opposition from the outside. The Senator added that Texas was the only state operating under such a law and the citizens there now are opposed to it.

Senator Casey characterized as a "gigantic bluff," the threat of the life insurance companies to leave the state if his bill becomes a law. He pointed out that the fire insurance companies made the same bluff four years ago against legislation which was adopted. For a short time the outside corporations declined to write new insurance, but later resumed their underwriting. Senator Taylor joined Senator Casey in his efforts to have the bill passed.

Although the Casey measure is not dead, it is generally believed that its chances of passing have been greatly impaired.

KEEP WATER FROM ROADS

University of Missouri Gives Advice
On Proper Care of the State
Highways.

(Note—This is one of a series of good roads articles prepared under the direction of the School of Engineering of the University of Missouri.)

The bane of earth roads is water. To wet the foundation, is to quickly ruin the road. When the frost goes out in the spring, the fields are allowed to drain into the roadway, regardless of proper provision to take care of the excess water. Road ditches are usually of small capacity and often become clogged so that excess water backs up over the road and quickly transforms it into a bottomless mire. Farmers should provide their own ditches for drainage, inside their fence lines, and carry them to points of natural outlet in order to save the roads. Conditions frequently arise where the use of a plow or a spade for ten minutes would relieve a half-mile of road from the effects of backwater, and enable it to dry out for use in two days. Without this relief, it will remain in bad condition for several weeks.

Let farmers for their own protection, watch the drainage of the roads past their farms. When roads are looked upon as an evidence of shiftlessness on the part of the adjacent farmers, we may look for a radical improvement.

Fern, Tonight

Because Bessie Gale, an actress, made sure to protect herself from intrigue, she was known as "the unattainable" among the fast set that spends its leisure hours in pursuit of pleasure along New York's "Great White Way." Because she was left, accidentally, stranded among the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains, while on a theatrical tour, she met and married a real man, albeit he was a sheep herder. Because there came to Bessie the longing to see once more the "bright lights," and because she listened to the call of the stage, Bluebird Photoplays have been provided with an excellent scenario for "The Unattainable," the feature to be exhibited at the Fern theatre tonight, with Dorothy Davenport and Emory Johnson leading a splendid company in an engaging entertainment. Pictorially the work is made beautiful by the natural scenery of the Sierras and expensive "sets" depicting the haunts of the millionaires in New York. Its dramatic artistry is assured in the efforts of a carefully selected company, chosen to interpret the various roles because of the adaptability of the artist to the requisite impersonations. 10 cents to all.

First Washington
Statue by Houdon

IN Washington's diary for Oct. 3, 1785, he writes that about 11 o'clock, after they were in bed, Mr. Houdon and his three young men assistants arrived, coming by boat from Alexandria.

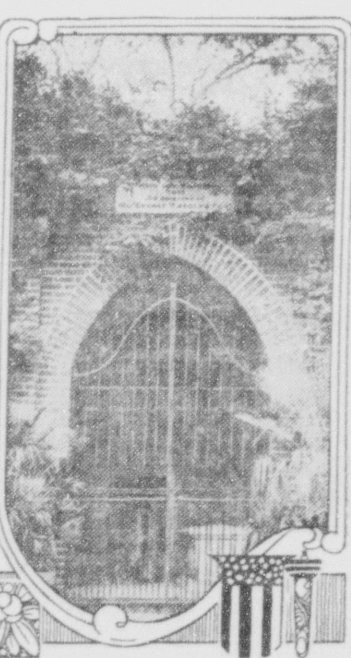

"During the sculptor's two weeks' stay Washington sat for a bust that was modeled in clay, writing in his diary a full account of the method of mixing the plaster of paris and the making of the molds, a process in which he was greatly interested. He also submitted to the unpleasant operation of having a life mask made of his features in order to insure a perfect likeness. In the presence of Mr. Madison exact measurements of his figure were made and full details of his uniform were noted to enable the sculptor to complete his work.

"The clay bust was then left by the sculptor at Mount Vernon, where it is one of the most highly valued of all of Mount Vernon's relics of the Father of His Country. But the life mask and molds of the bust Houdon himself took to Paris, not trusting them to the hands of his assistant, 'for,' said he, 'if they are lost in the ocean I am determined to perish with them.'

"One day during his stay at Mount Vernon Washington was looking at some fine horses with a view to their purchase, but the high price asked by the groom in charge so incensed him that the man was promptly sent away. Houdon, who witnessed the transaction, saw with an artist's eye in Washington's pose and expression the very thing needed for his statue and made memorandum of it. On Oct. 19 Washington writes: 'Mr. Houdon, having finished the business which brought him hither, went up Monday with his people, work and implements in my barge to Alexandria to take passage in the stage for Philadelphia next morning.'

"The statue, according to agreement, was to be finished in three years, but was not completed until 1793. Jefferson saw the work as it progressed and was enthusiastic over the likeness and characteristic attitude that the sculptor had caught."—H. A. Ogden in St. Nicholas.

Washington's Tomb

TOMB OF WASHINGTON AT MOUNT VERNON.

TOMB of the mighty dead,
How sacred every tree
Waving above thy head
Or shedding bloom on thee!
As long as fair Potomac flows,
Sparkling 'neath Mount Vernon's sun,
Revered by friends and foes,
Dwell here, in blest repose,
Washington!

SONS of the pilgrim sires,
Sons of yon boundless west,
Ye whom the tropic fires
Or hoarse lakes hush to rest,
If wandering wide you e'er forget
Ties that bind us all in one,
Here, at your father's feet,
The brothers' vow repeat,
While the breeze respondeth sweet,
Washington!

HE of Helena's rock
Hath an enduring name
Echoed in battle shock,
Sculptured with blood and flame.
But, when the mother at her knee
Whispers to her cradled son
The alphabet of liberty,
Will he not lip of thee,
Washington?

SHOULD baleful discord steal
Our patriot strength away,
Or fierce invasion's zeal
Recall old Bunker's day,
Or mad disunion smite the tree
Nursed so long in glory's sun,
Mount Vernon's tomb shall be
The watchword of the free,
Guiding their hearts to thee,
Washington!
—Mrs. L. H. Sigourney.

Washington's Birthday.
The date of Washington's birthday was, according to the calendar at the time of his birth, Feb. 11. This became Feb. 22 when the Gregorian calendar was adopted in 1752. The first place to use the new date in celebrating the event is said to have been Newport, R. I. As late as 1778 Washington himself apparently used the old style in referring to his birthday.

Obituary—"Lost Awhile."

William Earl, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Halst, living 11 miles southwest of Maryville, Mo., was born March 9, 1915, and died February 16, 1917, aged 1 year, 11 months and 7 days. He was sick about three weeks with spinal trouble. He is survived by his parents.

His short life has been a joy and a comfort to the young father and mother, but he was called to a better home above. Every care had been given him that loving and kind hands could give but he was suddenly called to leave this world of pain and suffering. He has gone to a home of perpetual rest, and streets of which are thronged with angels, who with songs on their lips tell of neither the suffering here, nor the pain of his life during his brief stay here. He was a bright and shining light and now with his absence who can realize the loss but papa and mamma. The words of the old song become our comfort:—
"So long thy pow'r hath blest me,
Sure it still will lead me on,
O'er moor and fen, o'er crag and torrent,
Till the night is gone;
And with the morn those angel-faces smile,
Which I have loved long since,
And lost awhile."

Funeral services were conducted by Elder Harlan, at the home of the parents, Sunday, February 18, at 2 o'clock p. m., in the presence of a very sympathetic audience, after which the white casket containing all that was mortal of this bright winsome infant was tenderly laid to rest in the Swan Chapel cemetery.
